

I think that the Indiana No Call List should be left exactly the way it is now. All these companies are just looking for a way to harrass people and bother them. I see no reason why they can't send a letter if they want to try and sell something or have questions. I see no reason why they should be allowed to call people at their homes, unless they are given permission to by that person. I think the No Call List should be all over the United States and I am sure there are lots of people out there who agree.
